

Begin your search for articles at the library home page, library.tulane.edu.

In the Library Search box, choose Articles from the search menu.

Many items will be available online through one of the databases. Look for Full Text Available under the article information. Click Full Text Available for a list of databases in which the article can be found.

Some items in the results might not be available online but can be found in the library stacks. See back page.

Choose one of the databases to access the Full Text Online.

Sometimes the link will take you to the journal and not the article.

Use the year, volume, and page information to find the article.
