2014

This is a listing of the map collection held at Tulane University's Howard-Tilton Memorial Library as of February 2014. It is a large group of materials covering both domestic and international locations. These include United States Geological Survey (USGS) topographical quadrangles and environmental studies, Central Intelligence Agency foreign country profiles, and National Atlas maps, encompassing historical, political, cultural, environmental, and sociological topics.

The collection's main emphasis is on USGS topographical maps of Louisiana. Most of these are the well-known 7.5 minute and 15 minute quadrangle layout, and range in dates from 1935 to 2006. These USGS print maps are now considered "legacy," or historical maps. This is because in 2009 they began using new surveying technologies and GIS information sources to produce digital maps online. Some consider the legacy maps to be more accurate and trustworthy since they use older methods of aerial photography and field checking. The print maps are useful for comparison with the newer GIS-produced maps, as well as for studying changes in geographical and historical features over time.

The map collection is located on the second floor of Howard-Tilton Memorial Library, just outside the Microforms Department. They are shelved in four main groups: Louisiana USGS Maps, U.S. and North American Maps, Foreign Maps, and World Maps. Each group is organized alphabetically by quadrangle, state, country, or title. When using the maps collection, please seek assistance in the Microforms Department on the second floor.
